SCHEDULE OF FEES

H-1B (cap-exempt organization):

Basic Fee	$	460	Applicant
Anti-Fraud Fee		500	Applicant
Premium Processing (15 days processing)		2,500	CRH
Attorney's Fee		2,000	Applicant

Additional Expenses:

Philippine Gov't Agencies
Transportation Expenses for principal beneficiary

Green card Processing for Med Techs and Nurses

Basic Fee	$	700
Premium Processing (optional)		2,500
Attorney's Fee		5,000

Additional Fees (can be shouldered by beneficiary per Employment Contract)

Adjustment of Status Filing Fee	$	1,225
Attorney's Fee per dependent		1,500

Note: Filing fees are subject to change and per beneficiary.
Attorney's Fee includes any Request for Evidence, if any Appeal fees are not included in case of denial. Due to time it takes for USCIS to resolve appeals, we do not recommend filing them. Instead we recommend filing a new petition.

CRHA Advisory and Leadership Team,

I've spoken before about our Laboratory Scientist and the impact bringing in much hire trained H-1B staff. Arlene has over a hundred applicants that are beyond qualified and ready to come to work for us once their H-1B has been processed.

I've attached a fee schedule, and the qualifying factors are listed below.

Note the Yellow highlighted line of $2,500 we'd pay, and the remainder would be paid by the Applicant.

We're committing them to 4-5 years at a reduced payroll to allow them a work-visa and sponsorship. If they don't pan out, we are not obligated.

Unfortunately, the information came to us after the posting time for the meeting, so we'll need to work something out.

The unfortunate and fortunate part about being a re-start us is we're moving forward at lightening speed that exceeds the capability of Governing Body meeting schedules and 48hr-positng timelines.

We 're extremely dynamic in our recovery and processes.

Appreciate you all.

Len
